
I honor the feminine spirit through diverse sacred and secular paintings. I celebrate each one of us — the iconic individual — living out the abstractness of our lifetimes within the sanctuary of the human body.

I give a visual voice to those striving together, or alone, often against great odds, women in transition searching and fighting for racial, religious, and gender acceptance and equality. I honor those on the exquisitely beautiful, hard journey of motherhood.

I believe that by continually putting strong, empowering art created from the heart — art reflecting inherent human similarities rather than differences — I am contributing to a better world for women.

[top left] Reflections on the Journey — Dr. Janet Moses, [top right] Cry Haiti, [bottom] The Shroud — A Mother Waits, [bottom right] The Child

Janet McKenzie

[top left] Blessed Are the Children, [top right] Hope, [bottom left] Longing and Majesty — A Mother