

IMAGE CREDITS

- (10) [top, bottom left and right] images by C. B. Cote and used with her permission
[bottom middle] image by Susan Currie and used with her permission
- (52) Wonderlane on unsplash.com
- (64) Merritt Thomas on unsplash.com
- (68–71) Cover of Mount Desert: A History, George E. Street, 1905. PD
- (74) Anna Sylva on unsplash.com
- (78) Debby Hudson on unsplash.com
- (83) Brooke Lark on unsplash.com
- (85) Linh Pham on unsplash.com
- (86) Jason Leung on unsplash.com
- (87) [start at top left and continue clockwise] Erato at Italian Wikinews, 2008. WC CC
me, 2007. WC CC
Lumos3 (assumed), 2004. WC CC
Evan-Amos, 2010. WC PD
Przemysław Jahr, 2014. WC CC
Retro00064, 2008. WC PD
- (93) Detail of two shin-bone trumpets from a Tibetan banner representing attributes of dPal-Idan Lha-mo (Remati Sridevi), or Yamaraja “The Conqueror of death,” 18th–19th century. Distemper on linen. WC CC
- (96) Jean-Pierre Dalbéra, Kangling, bone used as a trumpet in Tibetan rituals, nineteenth century. British Museum, London. WC CC
- (106) Celery Vase, 1850–70. The Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York City. PD
- (112) Jamison Lottering on unsplash.com
- (115) Jon Sailer on unsplash.com
- (117) Allie on unsplash.com
- (130) Jeffrey Hamilton on unsplash.com