

the secret life of objects

Jeffrey Stoner

“When I was seven years old, we moved to the country. Just after I turned eight, we had an overnight ice storm. I walked outside, looked up into an ice-covered tree with the sun glistening off the branches and wished I had a camera. I wanted to capture not only the sight but the feelings I was experiencing. I finally got my first camera when I was ten.”

