Mountain Air Refreshes Window Frames

Carol McCord

Restored Saint Etienne

When taking photos I do my best to be thoughtful and respectful as I select, compose, and shoot. It's very important to me that I honor the identity and integrity of the objects I photograph no matter how large or small. My aim is always to try to see and record whatever I'm photographing as it is, on its own terms, its 'essence' so to speak, as far as that is humanly possible. By photographing the beauty and fragility of objects past and present and sharing their precious qualities with others, I hope in some small way to honor the wonders that exist during my brief moment in time.
