

David Denny - Five Crows

I Love You This Much

if you were a robin on a spring day & it was raining, one of those all day rains,
& I was a worm,

I'd let you take me, swallow me whole & not complain because I'd rather be inside you than not; I'd rather be a part of your world, flying up into a tree, warm & dissolving into your bloodstream, making my way toward your lovely heart.

—David James